

Housing Authority Insurance Group introduces Housing Enterprise Insurance Co. (HEIC)

We want to be the insurer of choice for your affordable housing risks!

What is considered Affordable Housing?

In order to increase the availability of affordable housing for people with limited income, the federal government provides incentive programs to developers and property owners who offer rental housing at lower than market rates. Examples include tax credit developments with both market rate and below market rate units, low-income senior housing, Section 8, HUD-financed properties or other types of rental properties with a below market rate component.

Types of eligible properties include:

- Multi-family including row, garden, town-homes, mid-rise and high-rise structures
- Mixed-use buildings where more than 50% of premium is derived from housing units
- Single family homes or dwellings rented to others (non-personal lines)
